A VIEW FROM THE PULPIT

I am sometimes asked the question, “What is the most important Jewish holiday?” Those who ask are often surprised to hear my answer: Shabbat. Though we might not think of Shabbat since it comes up every week, given its role through the centuries in defining Jewish life and keeping Jewish communities together our tradition places Shabbat at the top of the list.

No one has asked me if there is a least important Jewish holiday, though surely one of the rarest is Birkat Ha-chama, the Blessing of the Sun. This rare holiday, observed only once every 28 years, derives from a discussion in the Babylonian Talmud that every 28 years the sun returns to the position that it had when the universe was first created. Jewish tradition teaches that the sun was created in its spring equinox position, at the first hour of the night before the fourth day of Creation. Whenever the equinox is thought to occur at the same time of the week, the sun is said to have returned to its original position. Though the astronomy is complex given changes in the calendar over the centuries, in our day the date occurs every 28 years 18 days after the vernal equinox, which this year falls on April 8. This time, too, the day ends with the first evening of Passover.

I recall the last celebration, back in New York in 1981. Jewish groups in Brooklyn went down to Brighton Beach or Coney Island Beach at dawn, while others commandeered the 86th floor observatory of the Empire State Building, and greeted the sun with songs, dancing and prayers. It was quite an event, and promises to be so once again. Indeed, since the juxtaposition of the Blessing of the Sun with the onset of Passover occurs less than once every thousand years, websites are springing up proclaiming all sorts of messianic expectations.

Here in Montgomery, I saw this holiday as presenting a unique opportunity for interfaith cooperation and worship. Interfaith Montgomery, the interreligious clergy association, has endorsed the event, as has Huntingdon College, and we have planned an exciting program at 7:00 a.m. on Wednesday morning, April 8, at the Riverwalk Park Ampitheatre. The Montgomery Chorale and orchestra will sing selections from Handel’s oratorio The Creation, and lead us in other songs appropriate to the occasion. The whole thing should take about 30 minutes.

The focus that brings us together is the theme of ecology and environment. I believe it to be a natural human impulse to express appreciation for Creation and the beautiful world in which we live; less natural, perhaps, but equally important is our responsibility to protect our environment so that future generations will be equally moved to express their own gratitude.

That night, as the sun sets and Passover begins, we celebrate a creation of another sort – the creation of the Jewish people as they leave behind the slavery they knew in Egypt and begin their journey toward Sinai and the promise of freedom. From my family to yours, I wish you a joyous Passover, and abundant blessings.

TBO President's Message

One of the primary goals of our Rabbi and lay leadership is to manage the content and delivery of services to our congregants in a manner that is acceptable to the entire institution taken as a whole. Given the diversity of the membership, we must not remain static with what has worked in the past or thwart experimentation with new methods of worship or prayer. Therefore, it is imperative that our community communicate clearly and openly with Temple Beth Or's leadership so that we know when we have a program that works or one that needs further development.

A special committee made up of past presidents and other congregants was formed just a few weeks back to evaluate the Reform Movement's new weekly prayer book, Mishkan T'Filah. That committee, under the direction of John Ives, has been charged with providing an opinion to the Board of Trustees on whether the new prayer book should be adopted for use during weekly services at Temple Beth Or. The committee expects to render its decision to the Board before the end of May, so I will continue to keep you updated on this process.

Please refer to the various announcements and scheduled events posted within this newsletter and on your Temple website, www.templebethor.net. Two events in April that I do want to bring to your attention are the "Blessing of the Sun" on April 8th and our Temple Seder on the second night of Passover on April 9th.

Happy Passover,

Morris E. Capouya

TBO would like to recognize any graduating high school or college students.

Please call the temple with any graduations you might be aware of.

We would like to know. Please call the temple office when a family member is in the hospital or ailing. Too often we find out about illnesses, crises and hospitalizations long after they occur. This is a missed opportunity for the calls and visits the rabbi would like to share. Please let the temple know if there is a concern in your family or another congregation family (with their permission). We need your help in order to offer ours.

When scheduling calendar events involving the Temple it is important that you check dates with the Federation and the Temple for potential conflicts within the Jewish community. Their number is 277-5820 and you can view the community calendar at www.jewishmontgomery.org.

Greetings from the Men's Club;

On Thursday, April 23, 2009 the Men's Club will be co-sponsoring a talk by bestselling authors Thomas Cathcart and Daniel Klein. The subject of their talk will be their bestselling book, "Plato and a Platypus Walk Into a Bar: Understanding Philosophy Through Jokes." Their talk is a not-so-reverent crash course through the great philosophical thinkers and traditions, from Metaphysics to Logic. The event will occur at 7 PM at TBO and all are invited. There is no charge and light refreshments will be served.

Our next movie night will be on Wednesday, May 13th at 7 PM. We will be showing The Line King. The Line King tells the amazing story of Al Hirschfeld, creator of thousands of famous drawings of stars and celebrities for more than sixty years. Light snacks and drinks will be provided. All are invited and there is no charge.

I hope to see you all at a Temple event soon!

HUNTINGDON COLLEGE NIGHT AT TEMPLE BETH OR

Once again, Temple Beth Or welcomes religion students and faculty of Huntingdon College to our temple for a program of discussion and worship, followed by a reception. This long-standing custom has proven to be important to both communities.

On Friday evening, April 3, Rabbi Stevens will make an opening presentation to our guests at 5:00 p.m. in the sanctuary. The students and faculty in the Department of Religion will then join us for services, after which our Sisterhood will host a reception open to all. Please welcome our guests, and join us for this special service.

YOUTH GROUP

The "Blessing of the Sun" event will be held on April 8, at 7:00 a.m., at the Riverwalk Amphitheatre. We are asking that BOOTY members help distribute some attractive 11x14 posters promoting this event. You can stop by the Temple and pick up as many posters as you like and help get them up in our larger stores around town (or at the "Y" or other appropriate places). Thanks for helping to support our Temple events.

Sisterhood

As I sit down to write this bulletin article it is the second day of spring and I can promise everyone I am already enjoying every minute of this beautiful weather! There is something about this time of year that makes me smile all the time (except for the pollen, which is a nuisance). Aren't we fortunate to live in Montgomery, not just for the beautiful weather, but even more so for all of our wonderful friends.

This past month Sisterhood had a lovely Purim celebration thanks to the mother-daughter team of Allison Williamson and Joy Kaplan. Joy's hammentaschen are delicious for those of you who missed them at this event and at the Food Festival.

This month we have two very nice events going on at Temple. On Friday evening, April 3rd is our annual Huntingdon college night which Aimee Harris is hosting for the second year. If you would like to help her entertain these intellectual young adults please call her at 279-0567. Carol Loeb is busy planning our second night Seder which will be on Thursday evening April 9th. If you are planning to attend you must get your reservation in asap. We really need more reservations.

Also, please mark your calendar for Tuesday, May 12th for our closing luncheon. Robin Blitz is in the midst of planning our luncheon which will be held at Wynlakes Country Club.

So to all of you very special ladies, enjoy the colorful flowers, the trees budding and the birds making such beautiful sounds. I know I will!!!

My Best to You All,

from the Library

A few more recent additions to the library collection:

Einstein on Politics: His Private Thoughts and Public Stands on Nationalism, Zionism, War, Peace, and the Bomb edited by David E. Rowe and Robert Schulman: The subtitle just about says it all. Rowe and Schulman are leading scholars on Einstein. While we know of Einstein the scientist, what this volume accomplishes is showing us Einstein the political and social activist. The editors have gathered together an extensive collection of the scientist's public and private writings and placed them within historical context.

Red Sea by Diane Tullson: An ALA (American Library Association) Best Book, this young adult novel tells the story of 14-year old Libby who, rather uncooperatively, embarks with her stepfather and mother on a year-long sailing trip. When their boat is set upon by modern-day pirates, Libby's stepfather is killed and her mother is seriously injured. If Libby and her mother are to survive, it will be Libby who must make it happen.

Dateline: Israel: New Photography and Video Art by Susan Turnarkin Goodman:

From the book jacket – "What can art tell us about Israel today? Is there an artistic consensus among those living inside and outside the country? These questions are at the heart of Dateline: Israel ... a compelling volume that presents photographs of Israel from the diverse outlooks of nearly two dozen international artists ...".

Tommy. To Tommy, for His Third Birthday in Terezin, 22 January 1944 written and illustrated by Bedrich Fritta: This is a unique book ... a children's book created by a father for his three-year old son while living in the Terezin Ghetto in 1944. It is a collection of simply pictures, seemingly of a child's ordinary life, full of those things three-year olds do (and get themselves into). The reader will be happy to know that Tommy did survive. For the introduction to this volume he wrote, "As I reflect on the course of my life, words are insignificant, as they dissolve and vanish into a mist of forgetfulness. Only love survives, love that pulses with life and grows stronger. This is the love that emanates from the pages of this book and reaches out to touch us ...".

You will notice that only one name appears on the library column this month. Like it has for so many others, the state of the economy has affected the temple library, in our case necessitating a curtailing of work hours and new book purchases. In light of this, Brenda will be taking a hiatus from the library, and Eric will continue to work to keep things moving forward.

Panim el Panim Report

When I went to Panim el Panim, I didn't know what to expect. I quickly learned that it was not a laid-back event. Every day was filled with excitement and fun. While there, I helped out at Emmaus, which is an organization that helps elderly people who have trouble either getting around or getting food. I also participated in Street Torah, where other teens and I gave homeless people items such as socks, hats, and other essentials. I also became actively involved in politics while there. I was able to lobby with the Alabama Senator Richard Shelby about topics that were important to me in the community. I gained a sense of accomplishment from it. I felt that I had helped the lives of individuals and also made a difference to my community as a whole.

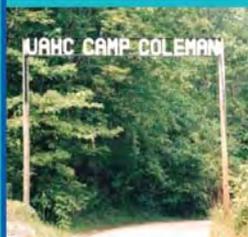

I would like to thank the congregation for their support of Danielle and me in going on this trip.

FINDING GOD: A NEW ADULT EDUCATION SERIES ON THE JEWISH VIEWS OF GOD

Judaism has never developed a creed that defines Jewish belief. Focusing instead on how we live our lives, Judaism has always left matters of belief up to the individual. As a result, through the ages Jewish philosophers and theologians have offered many schools of thought. In their diversity of approaches no one theology "defines" Judaism, yet each has its followers, and many of us who search for meaning and a belief we can call our own find that one or more of our great philosophers speaks to us in profound ways.

This class will cover five approaches, each on a Wednesday evening at 7:00 p.m.:

April 29, Saadiah Gaon
May 13, Maimonides
May 20, Hermann Cohen
May 27, Abraham Joshua Heschel and Martin Buber
June 3, Kabbalah and the mystical view of God

Each class will last about an hour. Registration is encouraged: Call Gina Friday at 262-3314.
